Once upon a time, there lived a man named Noah. God saw that Noah and his family loved God and wanted to obey Him.

The voice of God came to Noah and told him that the people on the earth were being evil. God told Noah he was going to destroy the Earth.

God said to build a big boat, called an Ark, to save some animals and Noah's family.

Noah trusted God and got to work. He gathered wood and nails, and he preached about the great flood that was coming to rid the earth of evil.

Noah wanted people to be saved but they would not listen.

Noah spent many, many years building the Ark before it was all done. God told Noah to take his family into the Ark with him. God also gave him instructions on saving the animals.

As the days went by, the animals started to arrive.
Some animals by two and some animals by seven, they came trotting and waddling.

Lions and lambs, elephants and emus, and even penguins and peacocks! It was time for everyone to get into the Ark!

Then, one day, what Noah had been preaching about came true. The skies grew dark, and rain started falling. It rained and rained, and the land was covered in water.

But Noah and his family and the animals were safe and snug in the Ark. The rain continued for forty days and forty nights.

Finally, the rain stopped, and the sun peeked out from behind the clouds. Noah sent out a dove to see if the waters had gone down.

The dove returned with an olive branch in its beak, a sign that the water was receding. With joy in their hearts, Noah, the animals, and his family stepped out of the Ark.

God sent a beautiful rainbow to show His promise to Noah and all living things that He would never send a flood to destroy all of the earth ever again!

Noah and his family thanked God for keeping them safe and for the beautiful world that lay before them.

We learn about Noah in the Bible to teach us that listening and being obedient to God is good!

Noah, his family, and the animals were saved because Noah listened and did what God told him to do!
